CATCH: CARING FOR ADULTS AND TEENS WITH CONGENITAL HEART DISEASE

Please join us for CATCH 2019: Caring for Adults and Teens with Congenital Heart Disease, beginning in the evening Thursday, January 24, 2019, through Saturday, January 26, 2019, at the Prince Waikiki. This event provides a comprehensive overview of the latest advancements in the field, and provides unique educational and collaborative opportunities for medical and allied cardiovascular professionals interested in adult congenital heart disease.

Congenital heart disease (CHD) is the most common birth defect in the United States, occurring in one of every 100 births. Currently, it is estimated that there are more than 1.3 million adults in the U.S. living with congenital heart disease, and this number is expected to grow by 5% annually. Adolescents and adults with CHD face unique medical challenges throughout their lifespan. For example, managing pregnancies in an increasing number of women with CHD who are in their childbearing years requires a specialized team of clinicians, including primary care providers.

Our expert faculty will guide us through the complexities of the evaluation and treatment of adults with congenital heart disease.

We welcome internal medicine physicians, family medicine physicians, maternal-fetal medicine specialists, obstetricians and gynecologists, pediatric and adult cardiologists, echocardiographers, nurses, pharmacists and other allied health professionals with interest in cardiac disease and treatment.

If you have any questions or need more information, please call Hawai'i Pacific Health Conference Services at 808-522-3469. We look forward to seeing you for CATCH 2019: Caring for Adults and Teens with Congenital Heart Disease.

Sincerely,

Andras Bratincsak, MD, PhD
Program Chair
