OFFERING INFO:

The Pediatric Fundamental Critical Care Support (PFCCS) course is aimed at improving the participant's skill in recognizing critical illness and initiating care in pediatric patients in the absence of an intensivist. Like the Society of Critical Care Medicine's long running Fundamental Critical Care Support (FCCS) course, the PFCCS course provides a combination of didactic lectures and hands-on skills stations with an emphasis on the pediatric population. This two-day, comprehensive curriculum addresses fundamental principles critical in the successful management of critically ill children during the first 24 hours post-resuscitation until transfer or critical care consultation. The course builds on the student's pediatric knowledge base, preparing them to assess patients and deal with acute deterioration in their condition.
